

EURONEXT ANNOUNCES THE MIGRATION AND INTEGRATION OF BORSA ITALIANA AND EUROTIX MARKET DATA ONTO EURONEXT, EFFECTIVE 1 APRIL 2023

Following the completion of the acquisition of Borsa Italiana S.P.A. ("BIT"), Euronext announces the migration of BIT market data and EuroTLX market data into the Euronext Market Data Agreement (EMDA), harmonising Euronext's commercial model across seven market places. Euronext will also undertake a phased technical integration of BIT market data onto Optiq®, subject to the successful completion of the ongoing regulatory approval

MARKET DATA FEE AND POLICY CHANGES, effective 1 April 2023

Euronext will integrate BIT and EuroTLX market data into the EMDA, which will give customers the benefit of licensing market data across seven market places within the Euronext Group under a single integrated contractual framework, utilising a single General Terms & Conditions, as well as harmonised definitions, naming conventions and policies across all market data licences. Customers will also benefit from a simplified onboarding and administrative process utilising Euronext's MyMarketData portal.

MIGRATION SCOPE

The migration and integration of BIT covers all real-time, delayed, and after-midnight market data and includes data from the Multilateral Trading Facility EuroTLX. BIT and EuroTLX market data will not be integrated into the existing Euronext Information Products, and will instead remain standalone Information Products. The key changes are detailed below:

INFORMATION PRODUCT OFFERINGS

- BIT's and EuroTLX order book products and pricing will be simplified and combined into two order book product offerings in line with the Euronext model. As a result, A1 will be replaced by Level 1 Information Products; A2, A3, A4 and A5 will be replaced by Level 2 Information Products; and the pricing will be rebalanced.

DIRECT ACCESS

- Direct Access licences and fees will be introduced for BIT and EuroTLX market data obtained via direct connectivity. In line with the Euronext model, this fee will not be applied to licensed redistributors, including Application Service Providers (ASPs) and Extranet Service Providers (ESPs), or to Trading Members.

REDISTRIBUTION

- New licensing requirements will be introduced for Network Service Providers (NSPs) in relation to BIt and EuroTLX market data. These new requirements necessitate the execution of the EMDA, payment of the applicable monthly Network Service Provider redistribution licence fees, and will also initiate reporting obligations for all ESPs that provide third parties with access to BIt and EuroTLX market data.
- Introduction of a “Private Investor Redistribution Licence” for BIt and EuroTLX Trading Members as an alternative to the standard redistribution licence.
- Removal of the BIt “Delayed Data per website licence”; in line with the Euronext model, this usage will be licensed under standard delayed redistribution licences.
- Inclusion of BIt and EuroTLX market data under the “Euronext All Cash Market Public Display Licence”.

NON-DISPLAY

- Introduction of Restricted, Restricted Premium, and Enterprise tiers for the BIt and EuroTLX Non-Display Usage and Other Application Usage licences, and rebalancing of the fees.
- Removal of the discounted licence for BIt market data for clients licensed for both Principal and Client Facilitation.
- Introduction of an Index Creation licence for EuroTLX. Additionally Euronext will introduce a supplemental licence for index creators that calculate indices on behalf of third parties across all markets.
- Introduction of additional Index Creation licences specifically for customers that only use Commodities or Equity and Index Derivatives market data for Euronext and BIt.
- Alignment of the existing BIt policies for the “Creation of Original Created Works for Redistribution” for Euronext and EuroTLX.
- Introduction of a CFD Use licence for clients using EuroTLX market data within “CFD Platforms”, including for CFD, Spread Betting and Binary Options Providers. Additionally, the existing CFD Use Licences for Euronext and BIt will be rebalanced and aligned.
